LESSONS LEARNT

- Networks are powerful
- Experimenting place-based solutions is fundamental for local development
- Identify and get in touch with local “change makers”
- Local groups must involve both political and technical level
- Involve yourself (your Administration) in the work (do not outsource all the tasks)
- Local groups must be involved in design, evaluation and monitoring phases
- Local groups as tool to design multilevel governance
- Keep traceability from the beginning to identify unexpected parallel results
- Knowledge exchange from the international to the local scale and viceversa

Improving capacities of local communities

SKILLS TO LEARN

- How to better manage the connections
- How to manage growing complexity
- New mechanisms for stakeholders involvement and engagement
- Administrative capacity
  - to manage relationships and engagement methods
  - to implement results
  - not only in pilot phase but on day by day basis

CHALLENGES TO FACE AT METROPOLITAN SCALE

- Fragmentation / dispersion of powers
- Governance practices often geared towards core-centric urban model
- Areas with different territorial characteristics, needs, responses and source of funding
- Budgetary constraints

Territorial Integrated Agenda
